NCAA: The Voice of College Athletics

The National Collegiate Athletic Association is the organization through which the colleges and universities of the nation speak and act on athletic matters at the national level. It is a voluntary association of more than 970 institutions, conferences and organizations devoted to the sound administration of intercollegiate athletics in all of its phases.

It was the flying wedge, football's major offense of 1905, that spurred the formation of the NCAA. The violent nature of the game, typified by mass formations and gang tackling, influenced President Theodore Roosevelt to summon college athletics leaders to two White House conferences to urge reformation of the game.

That led to a meeting of 13 institutions in early December 1905, called by Chancellor Henry M. McCracken of New York University, to bring about reforms in football playing rules. At a subsequent meeting December 28 in New York City, the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of the United States (IAAUS) was founded by 62 institutions. The Association officially was constituted March 31, 1906, and took its present name in 1910.

For several years, the Association existed as a discussion group and rules-making body. In 1921, the first NCAA national championship was sponsored—the National Collegiate Track and Field Championships. Gradually, more rules committees were formed and championships were added.

Administration and rules interpretations occupied early efforts of the organization. Shortly after World War II, the NCAA adopted legislative and executive powers, changing its function into one dealing with virtually all issues concerned with intercollegiate athletics.

The final authority and governing body of the Association is the annual Convention held during the first half of January. Each active and qualified member is entitled to one vote on all issues before the Convention.

A 46-member Council is responsible for establishing and directing the general policy of the Association between Conventions. Included on the Council are the NCAA president and secretary-treasurer, 22 Division I representatives and 11 representatives each from Divisions II and III. All are elected by the annual Convention. The Council acts as one body to deal with matters of overall policy and interests involving all three divisions. Council members from each division serve on the Divisions I, II and III Steering Committees, which are Council subcommittees that consider and act upon matters relating only to their divisions. A two-thirds vote of the full Council can overturn an action by any steering committee.

An Executive Committee of 14 members, including the president, secretary-treasurer and three division vice-presidents, transacts Association business and administers its championships. The five officers are elected by the Convention, while the other nine members are elected by the Council.

Committees form the core of the Association. They develop policy by channeling reports and recommendations through the Council, the steering committees and/or the Executive Committee to the annual Convention.

There are 33 general committees, 14 sports committees with rules-making and tournament responsibilities, 23 sports committees with tournament responsibilities only and two separate rules committees.

The NCAA has established 78 national championships in 21 sports, including 31 championships for women. There are nine National Collegiate Championships for which all divisions are eligible (three for men, four for women, two for both).

The National Collegiate Championship series, which began with a tennis tournament in 1883, has been conducted by the NCAA since 1921. National College Division Championships began in 1957. There are 24 National Collegiate Division I Championships (14 men, 10 women); 23 National Collegiate Division II Championships (14 men, nine women), and 22 National Collegiate Division III Championships (13 men, nine women).

Sports in which men's championships are offered are baseball, basketball, cross country, fencing, football (except in Division I-A), golf, gymnastics, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track, volleyball, water polo and wrestling.

Women's championships are sponsored in basketball, cross country, fencing, field hockey, golf, gymnastics, lacrosse, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track and volleyball.

Men's and women's championships are sponsored in rifle and skiing.

The NCAA maintains approximately 90 full-time staff members at its national headquarters in Mission, Kansas, under the supervision of Executive Director Walter Byers.

About Wright State

Wright State, named for Dayton's aviation pioneers, Orville and Wilbur Wright, is one of Ohio's twelve state universities. The school, which first opened its doors as a branch campus for both The Ohio State University and Miami University, began operation in 1964. Three years later it was granted full university status.

The main campus occupies 618 acres within the city limits of Fairborn, about twenty minutes northeast of downtown Dayton. The university also includes a Western Ohio Branch Campus in Mercer County, an extension in Piqua, and a continuing education center in downtown Dayton.

Wright State offers more than 2,500 courses, 100 undergraduate programs, and nearly thirty graduate and professional programs through its nine colleges and schools. The more than 15,000 students may choose from a wide range of programs that lead to associate's, bachelor's, master's, Ed.S., M.D., Ph.D., and Psy.D. degrees.

Buildings on the university's main campus are designed to be accessible to people with disabilities and are connected by a unique system of tunnels. The campus also includes a Garden for the Senses and a 200-acre biological preserve. The University Library contains more than 367,000 bound volumes. It features an outstanding collection of Wright brother's material, the papers of James M. Cox, and is one of two Ohio map depositories.

Wright State is a community-oriented university, with the majority of its students commuting to school, although a residence hall and apartment complex house 600 students who prefer to live on campus. The majority of WSU alumni live in the Dayton area and have assumed important roles in their professions and communities.

The Physical Education Building, which is the site of this tournament, was completed in 1973 and serves as the home of the Raiders. The building houses two gyms, a natatorium, a wrestling room, and the other facilities necessary to support the athletic teams.

Under the direction of its second athletic director, Dr. Michael J. Cusack, the university sponsors eight sports for men and six for women. The men's basketball team has had marked success over the past few seasons. The team has qualified for the regional tournament in five of the past six years and won the Division II national championship in 1983.

In addition, the men's swim team, women's swim team, the baseball squad, and the golf team have all finished in the top twenty in NCAA national championships. The women's volleyball team qualified for the NCAA regional tournament last year, and the soccer team finished the 1984 season ranked eleventh in the country among Division II teams by Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America. The wrestling team has had three individuals earn all-America honors, with 126-pound Tim Begley, a fifth-place finisher last year, recording the highest finish.

Cougars Favored to Earn Second Title

With nine qualifiers, seven All-Americans, and three returning national champions in its corner, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville is almost guaranteed to win the 1985 national championship. The Cougars were 48½ point winners over Cal State-Bakersfield last year, and the margin of victory could be even wider this year. Last season's coach-of-the-year, Larry Kristoff, and his Cougars have a realistic shot at seven individual national titles and several NCAA records.

The battle for second place should be an all-out dog fight with North Central Conference champion North Dakota State and runner-up Nebraska-Omaha butting heads with West Regional winner Cal State-Bakersfield. All three have at least eight wrestlers qualified for the tournament.

Nebraska-Omaha finished second in the conference tournament, but may be the best of the three teams at the nationals. Last season's eighth-place finish for the Mavericks was their worst since 1980, but this year coach Mike Denney's team looks to finish as high as second place for the first time. The key will be the performance of the team's five seniors.

On the other hand, if North Dakota State is able to hold off Nebraska-Omaha and move into the runnerup spot, the Bison fans will have its freshmen to thank. Coach Bucky Maughan has four freshmen and no seniors among his eight qualifiers, and two of the rookies won North Central Conference championships. In addition, the Bisons have three All-Americans back from last year's championships.

It may be surprising to see Cal State-Bakersfield picked to finish fifth after placing either first or second the last nine years, including seven team titles. However, Roadrunner coach Terry Kerr does not have an All-American among his eight qualifiers and only one wrestler even qualified for the national tournament last year. But in spite of having a down year, Bakersfield has a strong tradition of doing well at nationals and they were able to win West Regional.

After the top four teams, the race is wide open with 13 teams having at least five qualifiers at the tournament. Perhaps the teams with the best shot at moving into the top five are Portland State, South Dakota State, Edinboro, and Ashland.

Portland State finished second to Bakersfield in the strong West Region and three of its five qualifiers have better than 35 wins on the season. Three wrestlers have represented the Vikings at the national tournament before, but it will be the first trip for the other two grapplers.

South Dakota State has an All-American among its six qualifiers and enters the tournament after a third-place finish in the North Central Conference. But the Jackrabbits are a veteran team with three seniors and three juniors comprising their national team. That experience could help coach Mike Engels guide his squad to a top five finish.

East Regional champ Edinboro, under the direction of first-year coach Mike DeAnna, could likely make a run at the top ten despite not scoring a point at nationals last year. He has five regional champs including two who have carved out 30-plus wins this year.

Ashland also won a regional championship, taking top honors in the Midwest Region. The Eagles are one of only six teams to have seven or more qualifiers. If they are to move into the top five, they will need a strong performance from 190-pound All-American Dave Maiorana who was stunned with a fourth-place finish at regionals.

Other teams to watch include Cal State-Chico, Humboldt State, Augustana, Wisconsin-Parkside, and host Wright State.

118

Tim Wright
SIU-Edwardsville

Mark Weston
Nebraska-Omaha

Mike Brown
Northwest Missouri
State

Mike Baker
Portland State

Keep your eye on SIU-Edwardsville's Tim Wright. You may be watching the wrestler who will become the most successful competitor in Division II history. Last year, Wright won the 118-pound Division II championship as a freshman. It is not officially recorded by the NCAA, but it is widely believed Wright is the first freshman to ever win the Division II national championship. If he can repeat being a champion for the remaining three years of his career, he will become the first wrestler in NCAA history (for all divisions) to win four national titles. It looks as though Wright's chance for four NCAA titles won't be spoiled this year. Going into the tournament, his record is 34-3 with all three losses coming against Division I opponents. The class may be the most difficult to get a handle on as a whole, since it sports six freshmen among its 16 wrestlers.

The greatest threat to Wright's bid for a second title will be Mark Weston, a senior from Nebraska-Omaha. Weston, a returning All-American, placed fifth at 118 pounds last year after qualifying the year before. This year, Weston is 38-5, but will have to upset Wright to finish his senior year with the national championship. Mike Brown of Northwest Missouri State is the other returning All-American at 118 pounds. Brown placed eighth in 1984 and is returning as a graduate to try and improve on that finish. Portland State's Mike Baker is a returning qualifier with a 24-9-1 record. Baker was knocked out of last year's tournament when he dropped a close 16-15 decision in the first round. This weight class also features freshman standout, Joe Stukes of Pembroke State who holds a 35-2 record and may become an All-American in his first year of collegiate wrestling.

Kyle Pressler
Augustana

Steve Stearns
SIU-Edwardsville

Tim Begley
Wright State

Blaine Dravis
Minnesota-Duluth

With two-time national champion Don Stevens gone, there will be a real battle at 126 pounds to determine who Steven's successor will be. The heir-apparent to the 126-pound title vacated by Stevens looks as though it will be Kyle Pressler of Augustana. Last year, Pressler placed third at 126 pounds, but did not get the chance to confront Stevens, personally. This year, Pressler has a 39-4 record, but before he can claim the 126-pound crown he will have to face Steve Stearns of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville. Stearns, like Pressler, also placed third in the national finals, but he did it at 134 pounds in 1983. Stearns sat out last year as a redshirt, but he is back this year with a 34-12 record and hopes of spoiling Pressler's claim to the championship.

Returning All-American Tim Begley is the next most likely successor to the 126-pound title. Begley lost to Stevens in the first round last year and then lost to Pressler in his fourth match, but finished the tournament in fifth place. The 126-pound battle for the championship will also feature two-time national qualifier Tim Bonds of Norfolk State. Bonds had secured one victory in last year's tournament before he was eliminated from the tournament when he faced Stevens, then Begley, in back-to-back matches. Previous national qualifier Anthony Amado, a junior from Portland State with a 36-3-2 record, will be another top contender among this year's field of contestants. Also back for a second try is Blaine Dravis of Minnesota-Duluth. With a 30-7-2 record, Dravis has the fourth highest number of victories in the weight class.

Pat Hughes
Springfield

Alan Grammer
SIU-Edwardsville

Terry Kennedy
Edinboro

Jack Maughan
North Dakota State

With 19 qualifiers from all over the country, the 134-pound class has the largest field of competitors of any other weight class in this year's tournament. But, in spite of the widespread interest in that title, the championship is almost certain to fall into the hands of either Pat Hughes of Springfield or Alan Grammer of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville. Last year, Hughes reached the championship match where he lost the title in a 11-4 decision to Steve Markey of Cal State-Bakersfield.

This year, at 41-2, Hughes sports one of the best records of any wrestler in the meet. However, of the two blemishes on Hughes' record, the latest came in the championship of the East Regional where he was upset by freshman Terry Kennedy of Edinboro. In spite of the loss, however, Hughes remains one of that region's best hopes of producing a national champion. Grammer, the other top contender for the championship, has compiled a 35-6 record over the course of the season. Grammer placed third at 134 pounds last year, but did not face Hughes during the tournament. This year, however, a clash between Hughes and Grammer seems imminent. The other top returning wrestler at 134 pounds is Jack Maughan, a junior from North Dakota State, who has a 21-5-1 record and placed sixth at 126 pounds last year.

142

Maurice Brown
SIU-Edwardsville

Mike Frazier
North Dakota State

Eric Lessley
Humboldt State

Todd Winter
Ashland

Last year, three wrestlers from Southern Illinois-Edwardsville won national championships. This year all three of those wrestlers are back forming an elite group of individuals who have the opportunity to win two national championships. Maurice Brown, a senior from Southern Illinois-Edwardsville missed his chance of being a member of that elite group when he faced Cal State-Bakersfield's Jesse Reyes in the championship match and lost, 20-6. The loss was understandable, since Reyes was easily the best Division II wrestler in the tournament. But in spite of that, Brown is certain to be hungry for the championship that eluded him last year. This year, with a 30-8 record, he is very likely to get that championship in his fourth appearance in the tournament.

However, before Brown can stuff a gold into his equipment bag, he will have to face Mike Frazier of North Dakota State. Frazier, a junior with a 26-4 record, finished fourth in last year's tournament after qualifying at 134 pounds in 1983. Humboldt State's Eric Lessley will also be trying to spoil Brown's hopes for the title. Lessley has a 33-5-1 record and almost took Brown's place in the championship match last year as Brown narrowly defeated Lessley, 3-2, in the quarterfinals. Two-time national qualifier Todd Winter of Ashland is very likely to become an All-American this year. With a 33-4 record, Winter qualified for the tournament in both '82 and '84, but has yet to place. This year he may finally break into the top eight, and maybe even the top four.

Mark Manning
Nebraska-Omaha

Boyd Goodpaster
Portland State

Rob Yahner
Pittsburgh-Johnstown

Lance Rogers
North Dakota State

Only five competitors in this year's tournament have over 40 wins for the season and two of them are 150-pounders. Mark Manning, a senior from Nebraska-Omaha, has a record of 41-5 and Portland State's Boyd Goodpaster has a record of 42-5-1. If that is not enough to make this a weight class to watch, throw in the tournament's only undefeated wrestler. East Regional champion Rob Yahner of Pittsburgh-Johnstown is a perfect 30-0 for the year. If what you want to see is a scramble for the title, then watch 150 pounds and keep an eye open for these three wrestlers.

More than any other weight class, this one is going to be a toss-up. At first glance, it would appear that Manning would have the edge. He won the 150-pound title two years ago, when Yahner merely qualified and Goodpaster did not make the tournament at all. Last year, however, Yahner moved up to third, Manning dropped to fifth, and Goodpaster placed third at 142 pounds. And it is anybody's guess where North Dakota State's two-time qualifier Lance Rogers will end up after it is all over. Rogers is only a sophomore with a 14-7 record, but he may do very well as Manning, Goodpaster, and Yahner battle for the championship.

158

Jerry Umin
Oakland

Ken Davis
Wright State

Mike Muckerheid
Wisconsin-Parkside

Noel Hygelund
Portland State

With seven of the top eight wrestlers in this class missing this year, the field is wide open for the remaining 17 wrestlers. The only returning All-American is fifth-place finisher Jerry Umin from Oakland University who has carved out a 20-1 record on his way to a Mideast Regional championship. The only other returning 158-pound qualifier is the man Umin defeated to win the regional championship, Ken Davis. The Wright State junior will have the advantage of wrestling in front of a partisan crowd of Raider supporters. Davis recovered from a December injury to return just prior to the national tournament and was able to qualify for nationals with a second-place finish at the Mideast Regional.

Another wrestler to keep your eye on is Wisconsin-Parkside senior Mike Muckerheid, who has a 34-4 record and is returning to the national tournament after a year's hiatus. The two-time qualifier was a first-round casualty in 1982 at this weight and moved down to 150 pounds as a sophomore, where he placed fourth.

Another wrestler dropped a pair of weight classes this year after qualifying for the tournament last year at 177 pounds. South Dakota State's Doug Cox ran into the Booker Benford express in the first round last year, but has a 23-12-1 record for the Jackrabbits this year. Three other wrestlers have entered the national tournament with better than 30 wins. Portland's Noel Hygelund has a 38-10-1 record including a West Region championship. Junior Mike Hahesy also won his regional, and he was one of five Edinboro wrestlers to capture East Regional championships. He comes into the tourney with a 32-6-1 mark. Senior Curt Ramsey from Nebraska-Omaha has a 34-11-1 record, but he was upset in the championship match of the North Central Conference Championships by upstart freshman Gene Green of North Dakota State.

Tim Jones
Northern Michigan

Todd Yde
Wisconsin-Parkside

Doug Hassel
Nebraska-Omaha

Ray Porter
Ashland

With the graduation of South Dakota State's 167-pound champion Dave Cornemann, and the moving of third-place finisher John Morgan of North Dakota State to 177, one would think the showdown between runnerup Tim Jones of Northern Michigan and fourth-place Todd Yde of Wisconsin-Parkside would be a natural. However, the weight class is one of the stronger ones at the tournament, with three other 1984 qualifiers returning including fifth-place winner Doug Hassel of Nebraska-Omaha.

Jones still should get top billing with a 21-5 record this year. However, he had better get ready for a strong bid from Hassel who has had a year to think about the match he lost in overtime when Jones pinned him in the quarterfinals last year. Yde, who never met either Jones or Hassel in last year's tournament, also has a 21-win record coming into the tournament with a 21-8 mark.

The weight class seems to be one of the stronger from top to bottom with returning qualifiers Andrew Steffen of San Francisco

State and Ray Porter of Ashland earning second looks. Steffen has a 26-5-1 record, including a West Regional championship. Porter qualified in 1983 and won a first-round match before losing to runnerup Kevin Benson of Portland State in the quarterfinals. He has a 27-13 mark and a Mideast Regional championship under his belt. Two newcomers who seem to be in the same class are Edinboro's Matt Furey and Minnesota-Duluth's Scott Dyer. Furey, who is a freshman for the Scots, has the most wins with 34 victories. Dyer, on the other hand, lost a tough-fought 6-5 decision to Yde in the championship of the Midwest Region and has a 30-9 mark.

177

Booker Benford
SIU-Edwardsville

John Morgan
North Dakota State

Dave Iverson
Northern Michigan

Jim Zachar
Ashland

If you are a betting man and are looking for a sure thing, then put your money on defending 177-pound champion Booker Benford of SIU-Edwardsville. At 44-3, Benford has more wins than any other wrestler in the tournament and is making his fourth straight appearance in the championships. In 1982, he placed fifth at 167 pounds and the following year he was the runnerup at 177 pounds. And, of course, last year he won the 177-pound championship with a 13-1 decision over Wayne Love of Northwest Missouri State.

The real battle in this weight class will be for the opportunity to face Benford in the championship match. Depending on the seeding, it looks like John Morgan of North Dakota State is most likely to be the 177-pound runnerup. Morgan, a junior, placed third at 167 pounds last year and fifth the year before. Also returning this year is last year's 177-pound sixth-place finalist, Dave Iverson. A senior at Northern Michigan, Iverson enters the tournament with a 15-3 record after placing second in the Mideast Regional. Jim Zachar of Ashland should also do well in the tournament. Zachar, a senior, has a 19-7-1 record and can boast of upsetting Iverson in the regional. Wisconsin-Parkside's Ted Keyes will be taking his third shot at All-America honors after qualifying at 177 pounds the last two years.

Ernie Badger
SIU-Edwardsville

Jay Stainback
Pembroke State

Paul Jungck
Ferris State

Koln Knight
Augustana

With the top two wrestlers from the 1984 championships returning, one might expect the 190-pound class to turn into a two-man race, but that is hardly the case. In addition to the two finalists, two other All-Americans return, plus two other 1984 qualifiers and the 1982 runnerup at 177 pounds. Defending champ Ernie Badger from Southern Illinois-Edwardsville certainly will remain the favorite, having maintained a 29-8 record through the Cougar's tough schedule. He could well be rematched with Pembroke State's Jay Stainback, whom he beat 13-5 in the national championship last year.

Among the other contenders, Ferris State's Paul Jungck is the top contender to move into the championship bout after a third-place finish in last year's championships. He was upset in the quarterfinals by Stainback. Ashland's Dave Maiorana was a seventh-place finisher last year, but has not had as successful a campaign in 1985. He placed fourth in the Mideast Regional and has a disappointing 11-10 record entering the tournament. Two 1984 qualifiers at 177 pounds Koln Knight and William Wright, moved up to 190 pounds this year. The two met in the first round last year, with Wright coming out on top. Knight was a second-place finisher at that weight in 1982 as a freshman and looks to be back on track this year with a 41-3 mark.

HWT

Al Sears
SIU-Edwardsville

Al Holleman
South Dakota State

Keith Hanson
Augustana

The top wrestler in the weight class of the big men is the all-time fall man in collegiate wrestling, Al Sears. The Southern Illinois-Edwardsville senior, who is making his fourth appearance in the national championships, recorded his 107th pin of his career in 18 seconds in the championship match of the Midwest Regional over John Perry of Missouri-Rolla for his third straight pin of the tournament. Sears has not spared his pinning expertise in the national championships. In his three previous trips, Sears recorded first-period pins over all three of his first-round opponents. In all, Sears has eight pins during national championship matches, but he has not made it back to the championship match after finishing second his freshman year. Last season, he placed fourth when he lost to a decision in favor of the eventual champion, Morris Johnson of San Francisco State, in the semifinals.

The only other All-American in the weight class is South Dakota State junior Al Holleman. He got caught by a third period pin by last year's runnerup Mike Blasko of Cal State-Bakersfield, which knocked him out of the championship bracket. Among the other competitors, Blasko's replacement at Bakersfield, Mike Monroe, is the only one with a 30-win season at 30-7-1. Indiana Central's Duane Lutgring, who last qualified for nationals at 190 in 1982, has a fine 22-3 record, but was defeated in the championship match of the Mideast Regional by Northern Michigan senior Joe Buelt. There was also an upset in the finals of the South Regional when Liberty Baptist's James Hatch pinned Pembroke State's Derrek Edmonds in the third period, giving Edmonds his second loss of the season in 29 outings. Keith Hanson from Augustana, comes into the tournament with a 27-6-1 mark despite a loss in the championship match of the North Central Conference Championships to Holleman.

Scoring Rules

Team Scoring

In tournaments, individual placement points shall be awarded as soon as earned. Placement points already earned will be deducted in case of forfeit or disqualification.

In tournaments scoring eight places, the winner of each championship quarterfinal shall be awarded three (3) place points, the winner of each championship semifinal shall be awarded nine (9) additional place points, and the winner of each championship final shall be awarded four (4) additional place points. The winner of the final preliminary round of consolations shall receive one (1) place point. The winner of the quarterfinal consolation match shall receive two (2) additional place points, the winner of the consolation semifinals shall receive four (4) additional place points. The winner of third place and the winner of fifth place shall receive two place points, while the winner of seventh place shall receive one (1) additional place point.

Advancement Points:

One team point shall be scored for each match won in the championship bracket and one-half point in the consolation bracket except for the final first, third, and fifth place matches. Wrestlers who receive byes will receive advance points for the bye if they win their next match.

Additional Points:

FallOne Point

Any part of both shoulders or area of both scapulas held in contact with the mat for one second constitutes a fall. The one-second count (one-thousand-and-one) shall be a silent count by the Referee and shall start only after the Referee is in such position that he can observe that a fall is imminent after which the shoulders or scapula area must be held in continuous contact with the mat in-bounds for one second before a fall is awarded.

Technical Fall.....One Point

A technical fall occurs when a wrestler has earned a 15-point advantage over his opponent.

ForfeitOne Point

A forfeit is received by a wrestler when his opponent, for any reason, fails to appear for the match. In order to receive a forfeit, a wrestler must be dressed in wrestling uniform and appear on the mat.

Disqualification.....One Point

Disqualification is a situation in which a contestant is barred from participation in accordance with the Penalty Chart.

Default.....One Point

A default is awarded in a match when one of the wrestlers is unable to continue wrestling for any reason.

Superior Decision ¼ Point

Any match won by ten or more points.

Major Decision ½ Point

Any match won by 8-11 points.

Individual Matches

In all matches, the contestants are awarded points by the Referee in accordance with the following system:

Takedown..... 2 Points

When, from a neutral position, a contestant gains control and places his opponent's supporting points down on the mat, and held beyond reaction time, while the supporting points of either wrestler are within the wrestling area, he has gained a takedown. Down on the mat, the usual points of support may be: Knee (2), the side of the thigh and the buttock. When the hands bear the majority of the defense wrestler's weight, the hands are considered supporting points.

Escape 1 Point

An escape occurs when the defensive wrestler gains a neutral position and the offensive wrestler has lost control while the supporting points of either wrestler are within the wrestling area.

Reversal..... 2 Points

A reversal occurs when the defensive wrestler comes from underneath and gains control of his opponent, either on the mat or in a standing position, while the supporting points of either wrestler are within the wrestling area.

Near-Fall..... 2 or 3 Points

A near-fall is a position in which the offensive wrestler has control of his opponent in the pinning situation with:

(1) Both shoulders or both scapulas of the defensive wrestler held (stopped) touching the mat, or when the wrestler is held (stopped) in a high bridge or on both elbows, or when one shoulder or the head is touching the mat and the other shoulder is held (stopped) at an angle of 45 degrees or less to the mat or both shoulders or both scapulas are held within four inches of the mat. Two points shall be awarded for such near-fall situations. A continuous roll through is not to be considered a near-fall.

(2) The criteria for a near-fall having been met uninterrupted for five seconds, three points shall be awarded. Whenever possible, a visual hand count is to be used in determining a three-point near-fall.

A near-fall is ended when the defensive wrestler gets out of a pinning situation and only one near-fall shall be scored in each pinning situation. Only the wrestler with the advantage, who has his opponent in a pinning situation, may score a near-fall.

Time Advantage..... 1 Point

The offensive wrestler who has control in an advantage position over his opponent is gaining time-advantage. If the contestant with the greater time-advantage has one minute or more of net time-advantage, he is awarded a maximum of one point.

Penalties..... 1 or 2 Points

This includes illegal holds, technical violations, stalling, and unnecessary roughness. The first penalty is one point, second penalty one point, third penalty two points and fourth penalty disqualification. There is a warning for stalling. The first penalty for abusive and/or unsportsmanlike conduct is one point and the second penalty is removal from the premises for that tournament session only.

1984 Championship Review

Going into last year's national championships, it may have seemed that Cal State-Bakersfield was on the verge of capturing its sixth straight national title. All ten Roadrunner wrestlers had qualified for the tournament, three of whom had placed in the top four the year before. The only teams that appeared to have a shot at Bakersfield were Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and North Dakota State, with eight qualifiers each.

Cal State-Bakersfield was led by 142-pounder Jesse Reyes, who entered the tournament with an outstanding 37-2 record. Reyes had won the 142-pound championship the year before and was looking toward his second national title. The Bakersfield lineup also featured Mike Blaske, the heavyweight runnerup in 1983, and 126-pounder John Loomis, who had placed third that same year.

Like Bakersfield, the Edwardsville delegation also included a defending champion. Edwardsville's Don Stevens was trying to capture a second title at 126 pounds. Stevens was joined by Booker Benford, the 177-pound runnerup the year before, and Mark Kristoff, who was trying to improve on his third place of the previous year.

North Dakota State started the tournament with what may have been the strongest lineup of any team. The Bisons were led by North Dakota State senior Mike Langlais, who had placed fourth, first, and second at 142 pounds in the previous three years. Along with Langlais, the Bisons relied on three other veterans of the national tournament. Back for the 1984 tournament were Dave Hass, fourth in 1983; John Morgan, fifth in 1983; Steve Hammers, fifth in 1983; and heavyweight Brian Fanulik, a national qualifier in 1983.

The results of the first round of last year's tournament were a bit of a surprise. Edwardsville, not Cal State-Bakersfield, jumped out to the early lead. Three Bakersfield wrestlers were defeated in the first round as all eight of Edwardsville's wrestlers won their matches. But Edwardsville's slim three-point lead gave Bakersfield no reason to worry about the outcome of the tournament at that point.

Individually, the team leaders from each of the three squads did very well. Stevens of Edwardsville won his first round match, 19-4; Reyes and Langlais both pinned their first-round opponents. The other top contenders for Bakersfield and Edwardsville also won their matches, but the North Dakota wrestlers had their troubles. Both Hass and Fanulik were defeated in the first round.

The results of last year's quarterfinals may have come as more of a shock than a surprise to Cal State-Bakersfield. Not only had Edwardsville retained the lead, but they widened the gap. What had been a three-point lead was now stretched to ten points and what had been a mild surprise became serious concern. North Dakota State drifted even further from the top spot.

After the quarterfinals, seven Edwardsville wrestlers remained in the championship bracket compared to five for Bakersfield and just three for North Dakota State. Reyes, Stevens, and Langlais again won their matches easily, but then Edwardsville took a firmer grip on the title held by Bakersfield, nudging North Dakota State completely out of the picture.

In the semifinals, the picture did not change much. Edwardsville again lengthened the lead as Bakersfield worried and North Dakota State panicked. By the end of the round, Edwardsville had four wrestlers heading for the championship. Bakersfield had three, and North Dakota State was down to one.

In the championship round, Edwardsville settled the question once and for all. At 126 pounds, Stevens of Edwardsville went head-to-head with Loomis of Bakersfield for the championship. Stevens prevailed, 10-6. At 142 pounds, Reyes went head-to-head with Maurice Brown of Edwardsville; Reyes won his second championship. And, at 150 pounds, Langlais went one-on-one with Kristoff of Edwardsville. Langlais captured his second title.

Edwardsville's two defeats at 142 pounds and 150 pounds were more than made up in two later matches. At 177 pounds, Benford captured the title with a 13-1 decision and Ernie Badger of Edwardsville then sealed the tournament championship with a 13-1 victory for the title at 190 pounds. Bakersfield's domination of Division II wrestling was over long before Cal State heavyweight Mike Blaske was defeated for the heavyweight title by a 12-11 decision.

Trainers, Coaches and Athletes are aware of the high rate of knee injuries in sports and the consequences these injuries have on training and competing successfully.

Clinical data indicates knee injuries are not usually the result of a single traumatic incident but rather the result of a series of cumulative minor injuries.

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS are able to reduce many of the causes of these minor injuries and eliminate much of the potential for serious damage.

FORCE 10

IMPACT PADS

A Genuine Breakthrough in Knee Protection

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS eliminate up to 94% of the energy normally absorbed by the soft tissues of the knee.

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS wrap the knee and connecting muscle and ligament tissue in a comfortable heat retaining sleeve of nitrogen blown neoprene which promotes flexibility.

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS encase the knee in a special nylon binding which is engineered to provide uniform pressure along the knee and enhance the proprioceptive reaction the athlete experiences with his knee.

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS are manufactured employing engineering techniques resulting in a Knee Pad capable of withstanding the stresses to which athletes subject their equipment.

FORCE 10 KNEE PADS are available in 13 solid colors: Black, Royal Blue, Brown, Gold, Green, Navy, Orange, Red, Maroon, Purple, Silver, Flesh and White. Two color pads to match school colors are available at no extra cost.
